Scrofula, or King's Evil,

is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this finid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the conever be its origin, it is hereditary in the con-stitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers their children." Its effects commence by deposition from th lood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul cor-ruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constituplaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; conse-quently vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which dein this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause. One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking in-fection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in skill of our times can devise for this every-where prevailing and fatal malady. It is comwhere prevailing and fatal malady. It is com-bined from the most active remedials that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only Scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as Emprive and Skin Diseases, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, or Envirences, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Blains and Boils, Tunous, Tetter and SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, RINGWORM RHEUMATISM, SYPHILITIC and MURCURIAL DIS EASES, DROPSY, DYSPEPSIA, DERILITY, and deed, ALL COMPLAINTS ARISING PROM VITIA TED OR IMPURE BLOOD. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood" is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The articular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

AYER'S Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, the most effectual remedy which the medical

AYER'S

Intermittent Fever, or Fever and Ague, Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, and Bilious Fevers, indeed for the whole class of discases originat-ing in biliary derangement, caused by the Malaria of Miasmatic Countries.

are enabled here to offer the con medy which, while it cures the above complaints ith certainty, is still perfectly harmless in any nantity. Such a remedy is invaluable in districts here these afflicting disorders prevail. This CHRIT expels the miasmatic poison of FEVER ND Awar from the system, and prevents the de-elopment of the disease, if taken on the first apsch of its premonitory symptoms. It is not only best remedy ever yet discovered for this class of complaints, but also the cheapest. The large or complaints, our as a dollar brings it within the reach of every body; and in billous districts, where Freeze and Ague prevails, every body should have it and use it freely both for cure and protection. A great superiority of this remedy over any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cure of Intermittents is that it contains no Quinine for mineral; consequently it produces no quinism or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never had the disease.

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequence of the mineralic poison. A great variety of disorders arise from its irritation, among which are Neuralyin, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blindness, Toothache, Eurache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpilation, Pairful Affection of the Spleen, Hysterics, Pain in the Bonels, Cohe, Paralysis and Decice, Paralysis and Decice, Paralysis and Decices, Paint in the ics, Papi in the Bowels, Code, Paralysis and De rangement of the Stomach, all of which, who originating in this cause, put on the intermitten tope, or become periodical. This "CURE" expel the poison from the blood, and consequently cure them all alike. It is an invaluable protection to them all alike. It is an invaluable protection to immigrants and persons travelling or temporarily residing in the malarious districts. If taken occasionally or daily while exposed to the infection that will be excreted from the system, and cannot accumulate in sufficient quantity to ripen into disease. Hence it is even more valuable for protection than cure, and few will ever suffer from Intermittents if they avail themselves of the protection this remedy affords.

THE GREAT MAGICIAN. BY JOHN G. BAXE. Hoos iterum Propens."

Onge, when a lad, it was my hap
To gain my mother's kind permission
To go and see a foreign chap
Who called himself "The Great Magician!
I recollect his wondrous skill
In divers mystic conjurations,
And how the fellow wrought at will
The most predigious transformations.

I recollect the nervous man
Within whose hat the great deceiver
Broke eggs, as in a frying-pan,
And took 'em smoking from his beaver'
I recollect the lady's shaw!
Which the magician rent saunder,
And then restored; but best of all
I recollect the Ribbon-Wonder!

I mean, of course, the funny freak
In which the wizard, at his pleasure,
Spins lots of ribbons from his cheek,
(Where he had, hid 'em, at his leisure).
Vard after yard, of every hise,
Come blazing out, and still the fellow
Keeps spinning ribbons, red and blue.
And black, and white, and green, and yellow!

I ne'er shall see another show
To rank with the immortal "Potter's,"
He's dead and buried long ago,
And others charm our sons and daughters;
Years—years have fled—alas how quick,
Since I beheld the Great Magician.
And yet I've seen the Ribbon-Trick
In many a curious repetition! Thus, when an author I have read.

Who much amased the world of letters,
With gens his flusht pen had shed,
(All nicely pitfered from his betters).
Presto!—'tis done!—and all complete,
As is my youth's enraptured vision.
I've seen again the Ribbon-Feat,
And thought about the Great Magician! 80, when a sermon I have heard
Made up of bits of borrowed learning
Some cheap mosaic which has stirred
The wonder of the undiscerning
Swift as a flash has memory then

Recailed the ancient exhibition— I saw the Ribbon-Trick again, And thought about the Great Magician

So when some flippant man-o'-jokes,
Though in himself no dunce was duller.
Has dazzled all the simple folk.
With brilliant jeats of every color—
I've whispered thus:—[while fast and thick
The jewels flashed across my vision].
"How well he plays the Ribbon-frick!
By Joye!—he beats the Great Magician!"

I ne'er shall see another show

To rank with the immortal "Potter's "
He's dead and buried long ago,
And other wizards take the quarters.
Years—years have fled—alas! how quick,
Bince I beheld the Great Magician,
And yet I've seen the Ribbon-Trick
In manya curious repetition

 "Potter, the Great Magician," a clever conjurer of former generation, is still vividly remembered by many loople in New Hampshire and Verment. [From the National Intelligencer, 22d.] The President and Gen. Frement. We regret to observe that a portion of the Republican press in the North and East (we are glad to say a small portion) betray a dispo-sition to raise questions of political discrimina-tion, and to agitate topics of sectional sensibility, in the presence of the more immediate and grander issues which deserve to engage the at-tention of the whole loyal population, as they martial law in Missouri.

We remark that the exceptions taken to the propriety of the President's ruling in this matter proceed in every case from such newspater proceed in every case from such newspater process as have been heretofore distinguished for the real and similared with which they have pers as have been heretofore distinguished for the zeal and virulence with which they have assailed not only the political extravagances of "Pro-Slavery leaders," but the entire social system of the slaveholding States, so far as that system depends on the institution of slavery.—And to such extent is this animosity carried by one most intelligent journal at the North that simply because certain papers, not heretofore in direct political sympathy with the Administration, and charged with being too favorable to the cause of the secessionists, have expressed to the war, it could be accomplished only in the track of a liberating army, as mere edicts of emancipation would be utterly powerless, except so far as they were carried into effect by the law of force against the wishes and interests of the parties concerned againet to the principle that "the boan of freedom" is to be given only to the slaves of "rebels in arms" against the Government would seem to discredit she first to urge a total putting away of partisan distinctions in the face of the perils besetting the very existence of the Government.

It has been proclaimed by the Administration from the beginning of the hostilities forced upon it, and by the National Legislature in providing ways and means for their vigorous prosecution, that this "deplorable civil war" is waged with a single eye to the restitution of the national authority, and with no purpose of subverting the social institutions of any State. In this spirit it was that both branches of Congress, with a unanimity unparalleled in a matter involving questions so delicate, and still warm with the passions of cotemporary politics, passed the resolution of Mr. Crittenden, affirming "that this war is not waged on their part in any spirit of oppression, or fee any purpose of conquest or subjugation, or purpose of overthrowing or interfering with the rights of established institutions of any State, but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution, and to researce the Holms, with all the surrection as the States which have remained loyal?"

It passes our comprehension that any loyal citizen should impute as a fault to the Fresident the fidelity with which he seeks to keep the faith of the Government in this regard.—

We know that the disuniou and secession prees has been swift to predict that the Administration would prove recreant to its duty and its pledges under this head, but we had never supposed that professedly loyal prists would be forward to second the justice of such representations, by confessing to any surprise or regret at a decision which forever defeats expectations as discreditable to the sincerity of the National Government under its present Administration. Those who think it a matter of represent to the President that he has, by his firmness, won the praise of his political opponents, might well be reminded that in falnifying his constitutional engagements, so as to merit the applause of some anti-slavery extremists, he would only justify the predictions of the most envenament.

And we are free to express the belief that such a dereliction of duty on his part would not please the latter any less than the former; for the secession leaders know full well that any such policy would be fatal to all hopes of restoring the Union and that the contest by dozen. such policy would be fatal to all hopes of restoring the Union, and that the contest, by degenserating into a purely sectional conflict between slaveholding and non-slaveholding States, would henceforth lose that national prestige which now gives to the Government its highest claim to the support of all loyal citizens, without regard to former political differences. If the contest should ever lose the character now impressed on it by the whole theory of the Constitution, and by the direct legislation of Congress, it would pass into an entirely new sphere of ideas, and would demand new civil as well as new military arrangements to conduct its operations. Under these circumstances, with the new combinations that might be expected to result from such a dissolution of the political elements, already deeply stirred by the agitations of the times, we should indeed have "confusion worse confounded" in our distracted land. It would be to superinduce, in the worst possible form, a condition of things in which.

And those who assail the firmness of the President for maintaining intact, as far as possible in this revolutionary crisis, the Constitution of the country and the law of Congress, appear to forget that to allow a different course on the part of the Major-Generals under his command would be virtually to abdicate his functions as the executive head of the nation, and as the Commander in-Chief of all the forces now in the field. It has been well said by a New York cotemporary, which ardenity austains at once the Administration and the Government—we allude to the World—that "unity of action is indispensible to military success, and unity in military movements can be and unity in military movements can be attained only by submitting them all to one directing mind." Those who dissent from the wisdom of the President's order, restraining the proceedings of General Fremont within the limits of the law of Congress, are ready, it seems, to acquiesce in the parceling out of the national authority into as many Major-Generalships as we have Major-Generals in the field. These latter in their averal militars distinct and account of the parcel ter, in their several military districts, and not the President as their Constitutional Commanderin-Chief, are to control, without let or hindrance, all military operations, and decide questions of civil and social law which seither the Constitution nor the laws of Congress have remitted to the ad-judication of the one or the other.

It cannot be doubted, as has been well said by another of our New York cotemporaries, that an advancing army will necessarily make what use it can of all property of "rebeis in arms," and in doing so will, without waiting for the processes of courts, seize and consume provisions, transfer to its own use all arms and munitions of war, horses, wagons, and availa-ble goods, and, of course, under this general rule, as the Government has already declared, rights to slave property, "dependent on the laws of the States within which military operations are conducted, must be necessarily subordinated to the military exigencies created by the insurrection, if not wholly forfeited by the treasonable conduct of parties claiming them."

This may effect the virtual freedom of many slaves; nor do we see how a people in arms can expect any other result than this in the "Control of the parties of the virtual freedom of many slaves; nor do we see how a people in arms can expect any other result than this in the "Control of the parties of the parti slaves; nor do we see how a people in arms can expect any other result than this in the immediate localities where the war is carried on. But this, which may be called an incion. But this, which may be called an inco-dental effect of the war, is a very different matfer from confiscation of property, as that phrase is ordinarily and properly understood, to the perfection of which a legal proceeding is necessary, that officer under his proclamation declaring so far as they may be suspended or destroyed tion, and charged with being too favorable to the cause of the secessionists, have expressed their warm approbation of the President's decision in this regard, it intimates the hope that the President will find in this very fact an admonited to pillosophy as well as the feasibility of the scheme it proposes. And as the scheme could not be carried into execution without to some extent impairing the tenure of alave property held by loyal masters (for what would be the condition of the loyal planter with the slaves of the strict observance of a law passed by the late Republican Congress ought to be source of shame to a Republican President!

We cite this single case to show the origin on the conduct of Mr. Lincoln in this discharge of his duty under the Constitution and the laws, and that too by journals which have been among the first to urge a total putting away of partition and that too by journals which have been among the first to urge a total putting away of partitions in the face of the perils besetting the very existence of the Government.
